What about the presales that some exchanges (like liquid) claim to launch in association with your investors?

You should pause video player when the user presses home button or locks the phone. It is very annoying now.

Hey guys, here're two feedbacks

Why don't you implement direct share option in order to make it more difficult to make mistake? It would be nice to have for some chats (e.g. groups) a second confirming pop-up like the classic share system one.
